

The “New” Silver Fix and the Powers That Be!

With Remarks On Texas Governor Rick Perry & Texas Gold!
Accompanied by a Warning to Jewelers!

Presented August 2014 by Charles Savoie

Effective mid-month August 2014, the old silver “fix” has been replaced by a new silver “fix,” run jointly by the CME Group, owner of the COMEX, and Thomson Reuters. But has anything of real substance changed? It certainly has not. The new “fix” was awarded by the LBMA, London Bullion Market Association, composed of near-do-well entities including Barclays Bank, HSBC Bank, Goldman Sachs, JP Morgan Chase Bank, and additionally Bank of Nova Scotia, Credit Suisse, Deutsche Bank, Mitsui & Company, and Paris based Societe Generale. For 116 months I’ve routinely made details available about a unique organization known to few as “The Pilgrims Society.” Persons who haven’t become aware of this group can find details on Google search. If you especially want the monetary details relating to this group and precious metals, add my name to theirs in the search box or read “The Silver Stealers” documentary. Therefore, I won’t go into another basic explanation of The Pilgrims Society here. The ringleaders of the megabanks above have all had heavy representation in The Pilgrims Society. The rest have been and remain represented in interlocking groups such as the Trilateral Commission and the Bilderberg conferences---groups founded by Pilgrims Society members. I am not among the commentators you can read the fastest, because of the nature of these presentations, in depth examinations must be made to substantiate my claims.

However, just to make reference to this alleged “new” silver fix, and how bogus it is, I offer this brief report. An oft repeated phrase most have heard, and which drives home how dismal this old world often is, has it that “the more things change, the more they remain the same.” We will not get into a long documentary such as “Who Controls The Gold Stealing New York Fed Bank,” released last February, but will let a few points suffice. This is a mere matter of a group of gangsters who tossed the ball to others in their racketeering organization. Mitsui Global Precious Metals, a Silver Users Association member, is a subsidiary of Mitsui & Company---a Trilateral Commission interest. The Mitsuis and the Rockefellers have been associates since before 1907 when the Japan Society was founded by Rockefeller-Vanderbilt liaison Lindsay Russell as another offshoot of The Pilgrims Society. The Japan Society in fact was forerunner to the Trilaterals, founded 66 years later, but represented an expansion into Britain and Europe, in response to Bilderberg not including Japanese industrialists and bankers. Meaning that Bilderberg is over-rated compared to the Trilaterals! However, they both sprang from this older organization which remains in the shadows.

It appears that HSBC, Scotia Mocatta, and Mitsui & Company are the London based ringleaders of the “new” silver fix, along with Thomson Reuters, corresponding to their USA associate the CME Group. Ever hear about a dog being “fixed?” There is the parallel here that those of us invested in silver producers are continually seeing our finances neutered, while shorts and industrial users are swarming all over the diamond beaches of the Southwest Atlantic African coasts in the 1890s, so to speak, loading up wheelbarrows full of gems. Will we ever see aggressive silver prices on a sustained basis? Yes. Will we have to be around for 969 years like Methuselah, to see it? Not 969 days from this point. When it transpires, look for Tiffany & Company to screech like someone being executed on the breaking wheel in Regensburg, Germany, in 1544.

The Rockefeller interests, an inner circle family well represented in The Pilgrims Society, are represented in the CME group by William P. Miller II, a CME board member who is associated with the Rockefeller Foundation. Other CME directors present “interesting” (meaning---shady) aspects, but for now mentioning Miller will do. As for Thomson Reuters, it traces to a 2008 merger. Reuters was founded in 1851 in London by a German immigrant, a man who became fully accepted by the British Royal family and English nobility---a community well known for sucking stunning quantities of silver out of China in exchange for opium, an addictive poison.

Reuters over the years has had ample representation in history’s most elite organization---The Pilgrims Society. Let’s just look at only two examples. I am known for long researches which have a role in scholarship but feel this one may be concise. Trustee, Reuters Ltd. 1952—; Pres., Australian Newspaper Proprietors' Association 1951-58; Director, Australian Associated Press Pty. Ltd., and of Associated Newspapers Ltd. (Managing Dir. 1954-64); Chairman, Amalgamated Television Services Pty. Ltd. 1958—. Address: c/o John Fairfax Ltd., 23 Hamilton Street, Sydney, N.S.W., Australia.

Henderson's name surfaced in the leaked list of The Pilgrims of Great Britain (1969). The Pilgrims Society has had deep involvement with news organizations since its founding. That would be a whole other presentation and of length exceeding 40,000 words. Sir Harry Brittain, a founder of The Pilgrims in 1902, also founded the Commonwealth Press Union, organized the first Imperial Press Conference in 1909 and was president of the International Association of Journalists, 1920-1929. These Pilgrims connections to big newspapers, big broadcasting and big media held and hold true in the USA and Canada as well. Just two examples from this same 1969 volume, page 434, Jack R. Howard, Pilgrims Society, was president of Scripps Howard Newspapers, Scripps Howard Broadcasting and an executive committee member of the Inter-American Press Association. The other on page 819, Arthur H. Sulzberger, Pilgrims Society second generation member, was chairman of the New York Times.

The Thomson Reuters organization has as the more important of its names, "Thomson." It's named for Lord Thomson of Fleet (1894–1976). In "A Look At Establishment Newspapers" by near-legendary author Gary Allen, which appeared in the September 1970 issue of American Opinion Magazine, we note on page 15--

"The mysterious Lord Thomson of Fleet (Roy Thomson of Toronto) has added to his international publishing empire some fifty-six American papers. Thomson is also owner of the London Times, traditional voice of the British establishment---where the Royal Institute of International Affairs is controlled by the same people who control our C.F.R. Thomson is a member of the elitist Pilgrim Society, which seeks to merge the United States into the British Commonwealth as a base for World Government. The major international banking firms on both sides of the Atlantic are well represented in the Pilgrim Society, and recently made it easy for Thomson to lay out $72 million for a dozen Busch-Moore newspapers in America."

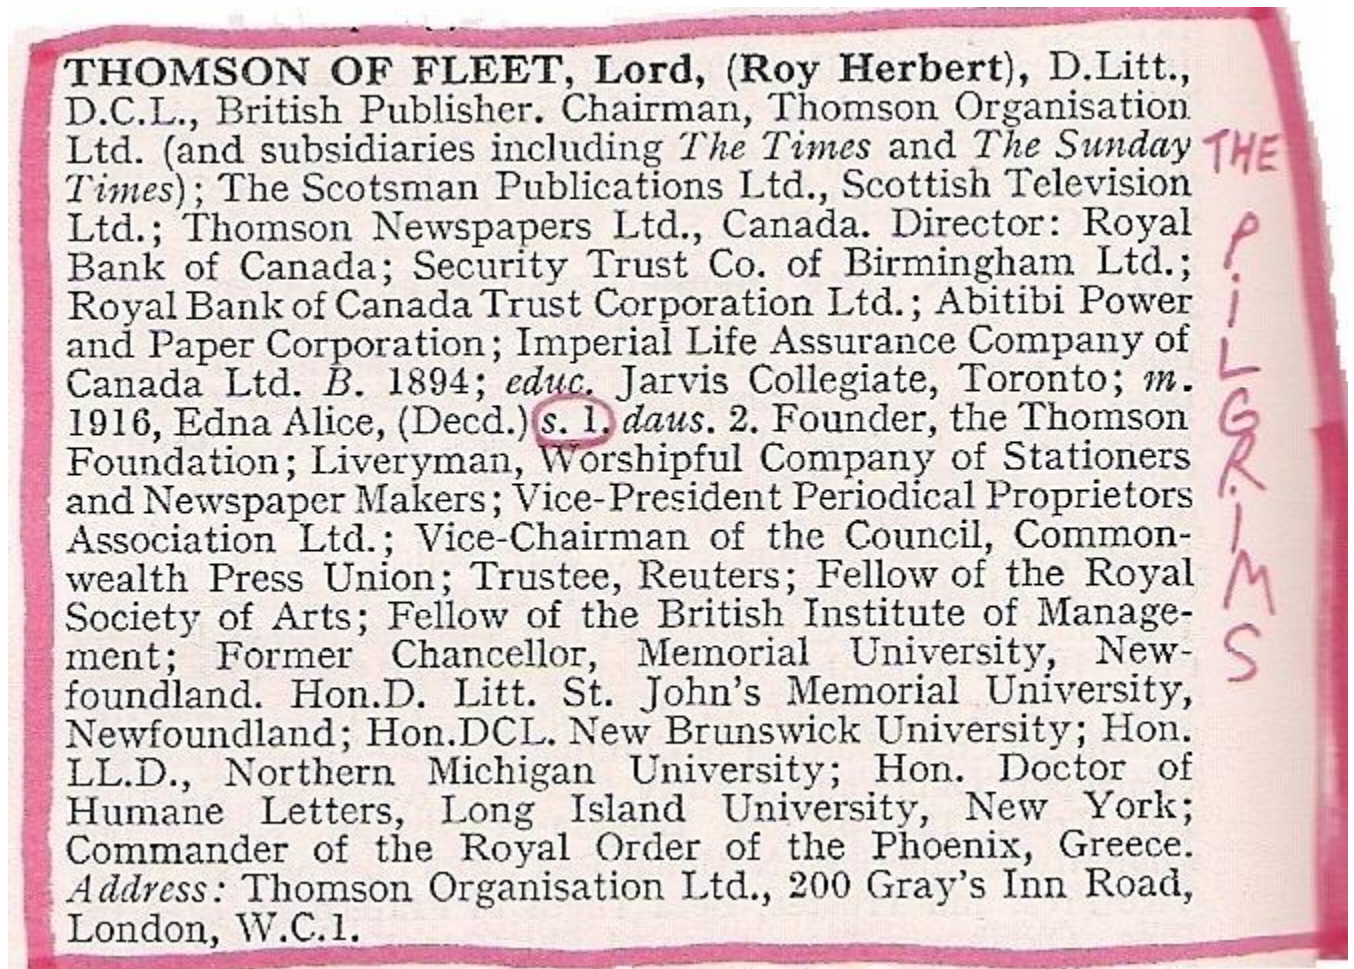

Gary Allen committed the same error as I once did (by following his lead)---the group is called the Pilgrims Society (plural), which in this case isn't splitting hairs, as another group, the Pilgrim Society, founded in 1820, is based at Plymouth, Massachusetts. It too is under the control of The Pilgrims Society via assorted trustees over the years including the Hornblower family of Wall Streeters. He mentioned the Royal Institute for International Affairs, founded in 1919–1920 by assorted Pilgrims members including Lord Arthur Balfour, whose actions in 1918 directly led to the modern re-creation of Israel. Here was the jovial Lord Thomson---

Due to continuing unavailability of Pilgrims rosters for many key years, it cannot be said with certainty that Thomson's son and grandson, David, were/are members also---it is extremely likely. David Thomson, head of the Thomson–Reuters organization today, was recently rated as worth $23 billion---around $9.6 billion beyond the same 2013 estimate for Rupert Murdoch---very likely another Pilgrims member---same as gun grabber Michael

It's typical of these operators to also be board members of global megabanks---in this case, the well known precious metals antagonistic Royal Bank of Canada, and a major insurance entity, giving them control over still more vast funds. Here's a photo of the current Lord Thomson, grandson of this Pilgrims Society member--

Would this guy be a party to suppressing silver prices? His demeanor isn't suggestive of St. Francis of Assisi, is it? Nothing has changed. Nothing will change as far as TPTB ("Pilgrims Society") is concerned. I don't see them maintaining gold and silver at toss-away rates for years to come. Many voices on the long side forecast the price suppression would have ended over ten years ago. In my earlier neophyte fervor, I was one of those voices. I recently heard about a man who had eight children by seven wives. If only the metals suppressors had morality equal to that lowlife. The identities of current members of The Pilgrims Society for its sole branches, London and New York, remains obstructed by lack of available information and by the Society's refusal to post rosters at its site. This organization has a very, very great deal to hide. I have in mind a series of ten presentations entitled "Silver Squelchers and their Influential Associates," each item in the series to consist of two major silver suppressors and a baker's dozen of other members of this Pilgrims Society, showing the unique levers of power they had/have their hands on. Watch for this series at the usual sites where my work is posted. The proposed series will cover the time of their founding up to the present.

At http://www.goldcore.com/goldcore_blog/new-lbma-silver-price-still-not-transparent we read---

“Crucially, the LBMA statement said that the seminar would take place under the Chatham House Rule. According to Wikipedia, the Chatham House Rule “is a system for holding debates and discussion panels on controversial issues.”

“Under the Chatham House Rule, anyone who comes to the meeting is free to use information from the discussion, but is not allowed to reveal who made any comment.”

Chatham House is the site of the Royal Institute for International Affairs in London, correctly described by Gary Allen (1936–1986) as “controlled by the same people who control our C.F.R.” (Council on Foreign Relations---more metals antagonists). Allen authored---

The suppression of precious metals prices is a highly organized, multi-generational conspiracy. It is orchestrated by persons belonging to “globalist” membership by invitation only organizations. The metals longs who haven’t acknowledged this situation are either stubborn, dense---or “controlled opposition.” The more discussion there is about these groups, the more public focus shifts towards them, which tends towards diminishing their power. While the “BRIC” countries are fighting these Anglo-American metals suppressors in their own powerful ways, we should be exerting internally against them here at home. One way is to contact your State legislators asking that at least five percent of state funds be held in hard gold and silver, in secure vaults within their own state boundaries---emphasizing the matter of Federal Reserve dollars consistent history of fading in purchasing power. At

<http://theweek.com/article/index/241884/why-texas-wants-its-gold-back-from-the-federal-reserve> we read about Texas State representative Lon Burnam chiding Governor Rick Perry's request that Texas gold be returned to Texas--- saying the matter of some $1 billion in hard gold owned by the State of Texas in the form of 6,643 gold bars stored in the Federal Reserve Bank of New York is not a "real problem"---

"We've got plenty of real problems---let's deal with them."

In relation to a bill introduced in the Texas legislature mandating the return of Texas owned gold, Burnam also declared himself as being "skeptical that it addresses a legitimate problem facing the state."

Here was Burnam leaving room to put his foot into his mouth---

If Burnam's local convenience store was hit with a $6,643 robbery he'd be concerned, but when bankers owe his state 6,643 gold bars, he's skeptical it's a "legitimate problem." You are a disgrace to your State, podnuh! The November 20, 1961 episode of "The Rifleman" featured this line---

"I ain't your citizen Mister Loco!"

The Associated Press reported on January 7, 1998, about hordes of South Koreans donating their gold jewelry to their government to help pay off loans from the International Monetary Fund. This was another fleecing of the small folks by the globalist financiers, under cover of misguided patriotism, like the trusting souls who leave their money to the U.S. government in their wills “to help pay down the national debt,” a debt which banker owned politicians have no interest in capping, let alone reducing. Will Burnham and his wife emulate South Koreans and donate their gold jewelry to the State of Texas to restore a micro-fraction of the gold owed by the Federal Reserve to Texas? Texas Governor Rick Perry was recently indicted on felony counts by a Grand Jury. I submit that there is every possibility this Grand Jury acted on input from the Federal Reserve! Perry’s Presidential hopes took another hit in the wake of the indictments, with 77% of those polled saying it damages his chances. The fact that his actions were those of exercising legally valid veto powers, and that his intent was to remove a district attorney who admitted to drunk driving---what has that got to do with justifying Perry’s stance, anyway? Help, abet and comfort the bankers every way possible, is the credo of corrupt politicians! Since Perry wants the FED to return gold owned by Texas, to Texas---he is not acceptable to The Pilgrims Society as a United States President! Grand Juries are another monster among us which appear impossible to reform---they must be abolished entirely.

Accounts of the “bank wars” between President Andrew Jackson (1829–1837) and the second United States Bank and its despicable backers show how low, vile, and devilish are the loathsome tactics resorted to by bankers to maintain their hold on power---including assassination attempts.

On January 2, 2014, Aurcana Corporation, who acquired the Shafter silver mine in West Texas from Silver Standard Resources, announced the layoff of 170 employees, due entirely to the huge drop in silver prices from April of 2013 when prices were over $32 the ounce. No, Burnham wouldn't give a flip about the loss of those Texas jobs either, because he doesn't care about this huge gold hoard being pirated from its owners, and the same gang of racketeers that runs the New York-London-Chicago silver fix also runs the gold stealing Federal Reserve. Real Texans have a basis for outrage against gold and silver price fixers and thieves---

Silver Standard owns two mining sites in Nevada. Will Senator Harry Reid decide he wants them, and use the Bureau of Land Management to seize them?

In order to prolong the reign of the Federal Reserve dollar, the conspirators are undercutting their own base---supplies of gold and silver are hindered due to the collusive price suppression.

Message to subscribers of National Jeweler Magazine, Jewelers Circular Keystone (JCK) Magazine and Retail Jeweler Magazine---you best strain your finances and buy all the gold and silver you can, because there is nearing a sharp demarcation between these prices and those of tomorrow. Understand? How will you be competitive if other outlets in your area loaded up on gold at $1300 and silver at $20 and you must buy at twice those prices?

On March 4, 2014, Burnam lost his reelection campaign. Unfortunately, the gold issue wasn't made a campaign issue, but for a man to trivialize a matter of this nature shows he'd have been invited to a duel by the Father of Texas, Sam Houston. It's widely known that Rick Perry attended a Bilderberg meeting in Turkey. If he hadn't been there, and was a Pilgrims Society member instead--he'd have not even brought up the gold issue. That's why Bilderberg is a distraction and the real problem is elsewhere. Is it time for aggrieved parties including Texas and Germany to send Luther Sledge to recover their lawfully owned gold?
